VITA / Portrait:

The critically acclaimed (The Wire, Lira, Jazznytt etc) guitarist and composer has become one of the most exciting young guitarists on the Norwegian jazz scene. In 2017 he released his trio debut album «Se meg en annen dag» See Me Another Day". The record was critically acclaimed at home and abroad, including the renowned British music magazine The Wire, which praised the guitarist, and said that the record was so good that it justified the use of Norwegian cultural resources.

Trond Kallevåg Hansen from Haugesund in Norway wrote a commission "Bedehus and Hawaii" for one of Norway's biggest Jazzfestivals in 2019 and called it Bedehus (Chapeau) and Hawaii. In his compositions, Trond deliberately use references and inspiration from his own upbringing on the beautiful and dreamy west coast of Norway where he spent many summers with his grandparents at Bømlø, a small island outside the west coast of Norway, where the Chapeau and the music were central. The combination of Trond's warm fender guitar sound and his lyrical compositions creates an almost cinematic quality. Melodies that remind you of everything from family celebrations to atmospheric improvised music like music for late and half-awake dreams from the back seat.

Trond brings with him his regular trio in addition to some of the Norway's foremost musicians, including the legendary pedal steel guitarist Geir Sundstøl which has contributed to over 290 albums of Norwegian and foreign recordings. Fun Fact: While touring in America in the 90s Geir actually inspired the Coen Brothers for one of their most iconic figures Geiger in their Oscar winning film Fargo from 1996.

Their debut album will be released in April on the record Label Hubro in 2019 together with a release tour «Stamvegen Tour» consisting of 5 concerts in Norway
